

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A patient support including a propulsion device for moving the patient support. The patient support includes a propulsion system having a propulsion device
5 operably coupled to an input system. The input system controls the speed and direction of the propulsion device such that a caregiver can direct the patient support to a desired location.